

Our Energy policy is a national priority. We need to implement a long-term energy plan that balances supply and demand, ensures reliable and affordable supplies of energy for the future, and provides responsible stewardship of the nation's resources. The American people deserve more access to American energy. High energy prices hurt everyone, especially those with low incomes, and weaken our overall economy.

Along with my colleagues, I have offered an "All of the Above" Energy Strategy that reduces prices at the pump, utilities in the home, and costs for businesses. It would increase the supply of American-made energy, improve conservation and efficiency, and promote new and expanding energy technologies. An "All of the Above" approach is key to solving our energy crisis. It is key to unlocking all of our nations rich natural resources. And it is key to helping hurting Americans everywhere.